What Does Two More Years of Zero Per Cent Increase Mean to our Purchasing Power?

The salary arbitration decision released 2019 01 10 means that teacher salary grids have gone up on average a total of 2.16 per cent in eight years.

Since 2011, the annual compound growth (assuming we received the same increase each of those years) in teachers' salary has been 0.27 per cent, while inflation in Alberta has averaged 1.6 per cent.

Since 2001, the annual compound growth in teachers' salaries has been 2.05 per cent per year while inflation in Alberta has averaged 2.08 per cent per year during that time.

WORTH SHARING

Teacher salaries have not kept up with inflation in the 2000s. Teachers have done their share.
